LOOKS OF THINGS ADOUT RINGEDLD.

This must have been a nice quiet place in oays gone by. At present it is almost a mass of ruins. After the Mission Ridge fight we followed the retreating enemy below this point, and, on our falling back, we set fire to point, and, on our falling back, we set fire to the railroad depot and many of the fine private and public buildings. The coart-house, a fine brick edifice, and a large seminary, also of brick, still remain. The valley in which the town is situated is fertile. The alvange of our army under Gen. Palmer is here. Gen. Baird's headquarters are in Ringgold at present, and ere this sees print Gen. Palmer will be out here. The spirit and condition of the troops is excellent. Of course it would be impolitic and unwiso to say anything as to nambers and position of the troops in what may be called the Chattanooga Valley.

The accident was caused by the spreading of the rails, and throwing the wheels off the track. The passengers speak in " the highest terms of the kindness and hospitality of the Post Quartermaster of Monford-Fille. As soon as he learned of their condition he afforded them all of the assistance in his power, and even had a substantial repast prepared and sent to thew. His kindness was nly commendable, for, without the provisions so generously proffered by him, the passengers would have suffered with hunger.

Yesterday we were shown a beaut ful silken banner, prepared by the ladies of Louisville for the veteran soldiers of the Old Legion, who were first to volunteer to march out to meet the invaders of our State. The hanner bears, in gold letters, the following inscrip-
